Headteacher, Crestwood School

Proposal to add a specialist inclusion base at The Crestwood School, an academy secondary school.

Introduction

In September 2023, Dudley Council (the Council) will set up a Resource Provision at The Crestwood School to meet the needs of pupils with complex communication and cognition and with an Education, Health and Care Plan. This is part of the Council's SEND improvement journey, and in response to an identified lack of such provision.

The Council is consulting on proposals to make this specialist inclusion base at The Crestwood School, a permanent addition to the school. The Crestwood School a secondary school with 975 pupils on roll.

In 2019 the Council identified that it had a gap in provision to meet the needs of pupils who require high levels of support with an Education, Health and Care Plan. Two SEMH bases were created in the last three years to provide provision for primary age children with an EHCP with a primary need of SEMH. This has proven to be a successful model and has gone some way to addressing the identified gap, however there is still a shortfall of base provision within the borough, at both primary and secondary phase.

Following a bidding process, the Council has selected The Crestwood School to develop an inclusive base where pupils will be able to be taught in a dedicated unit by specialist staff with opportunities to integrate into mainstream classes as and when appropriate.

It is anticipated that this will provide an appropriate education for up to 12 pupils and will provide a tried and tested solution for the Council to support our SEND children within their community, providing the curriculum, environment and staff they need without a move into a specialist setting.

Proposals

What changes are we proposing?

The Council is proposing to change the designation of this mainstream school to include a Resource Provision. This will be to support pupils with communication and interaction needs with an EHCP. Pupils will be taught in a dedicated classroom environment with support from highly trained staff. Pupils will have the opportunity to access a mainstream classroom as and when it is felt appropriate to do so.

Why do we want to do this?

The Council has a statutory duty to provide each child in its area with an appropriate education or school place and to secure the provision specified in Section F of a child or young person's EHC Plan (section 42 of the Children and Families Act 2014). In recent years, Dudley has seen a sustained increase in the need for specialist educational provision for primary age pupils who require high levels of support, which has led the Council to conclude that an increase in the amount of base provision to accommodate these pupils would be an effective use of Council resources.

Why has this school been chosen?

An open process was conducted with bids invited from both maintained schools and academies. Through this rigorous and transparent process, The Crestwood School was identified as the preferred setting alongside four other primary schools. The Crestwood School is experienced in meeting the needs of pupils with SEND. The site is spacious enough to accommodate additional pupils with some internal and external alterations.

How will this affect pupils at the school?

The additional pupils at the school will be educated in a separate designated base provision with specialist staff supporting them. There will be opportunities where these pupils are supported to integrate into the mainstream classes when it is appropriate to do so. It is anticipated that the resources placed into this base will also benefit strategies already implemented in the school.

How will this affect staff?

There are no anticipated changes which will affect staff at the school, although there may be additional continuing professional development opportunities for staff who wish to be in a more specialised provision.

How will this affect the local community?

Whilst it is not anticipated that this will affect the local community adversely in the long term, there may be some short-term disruption as works are carried out at the school in order to develop the physical aspect of this project. The local community will benefit from having more appropriate SEND provision in the heart of the community.

Will there be changes to the school buildings?

There will be some changes to the school buildings in order to accommodate these extra pupils. Changes are largely internal modifications in order to make this a self-contained unit with access to outdoor space. There are some changes proposed to external space and this will be completed through a phased approach.

Why are we consulting on these proposals?

There is a statutory process we must follow to make these sorts of changes to schools. At the moment we are entering the consultation stage during which we are inviting views on the proposal from pupils, parents, staff, local schools, local community, neighbouring authorities, local councillors, members of parliament and professional associations.

What will happen if the proposals are rejected?

If a decision is taken that this specialist provision should not be added to The Crestwood School then the Council's ability to effectively meet the needs of this vulnerable group of pupils will be diminished. The Council will need to reconsider how these additional places can be provided elsewhere, which is likely to mean that some children will have to travel further to attend school and that costs to meet these pupils educational needs may be more expensive.
